
Parent Child Relationship

Preeti Upadhayay*
Durgesh Gaur

Abstract

Relationship are of 3 types-

Given, Made and Formal

GIVEN- Given means blood relationship like mother, father, and sister.

MADE- made relationship are whatever make in the life like friends, spouse, husband-wife relationship, etc,

FORMAL- formal relationships are from business relationship, employment relationship, superior- subordinate, and colleagues, etc. All these relations turn to friend.

There are 3 types of estate- parent, adult, and child.

A person can operate from anyone of the ego estate at any times but whenever he operates from one ego estate majority of time it is called Cathy. The above description gives us a preface to the topic selection by the writers & that is parent & children relationship.

Introduction

Relationship between parent & child is a combination between experience of whole life & initialization of life. Parent serve their experience as a life time perception the child & we can say that it a very mature home schooling of child. They also learn adequate discipline in channel of up & down & down to up. For example regards of parents to the grandparents. It is a combination of overall course of life. Parent & child relationship consist of behavior feelings, expectations which are unique for a particular parent & for a particular child. It involves the full extent of child development. Now a day there is a nuclear family system & all are facing emerging trend. During their growing years children watch their parents through this experience they learn about love for their family, love for their country & love for all humanity. Relationship between is very important particular with mothers yet some don't care about their children & don't attention to them. Problem is that mother has no time to spend with their children.

If they did not get proper guidance by their parents, they get affected by the bad friends & bad habits & do everything in negative sense such as smoking, drinking drugs, which may lead them to delinquency.

Parents & Child Relationship

Dual Career Couple

In this the parents need to balance their career with their personal life. It takes time and effort to nurture the parent-child relationship. The quality of the relationship between parents and their children is often threatened by long, non-traditional work hours and the influence of social media. Spending more quality time with your child, engaged in activity or conversation, can help mend a troubled relationship. A lack of attention can cause problems, including displays of acting-out behaviors, in the parent-child relationship, Acting out includes the demonstration of disruptive behaviors, such as violence toward others and defiance toward authority. Improved communication and quality time spent between you and your child can decrease these behaviors and enhance your relationship.

*Student, Pioneer Institute Of Professional Institute, Indore

Assistant Professor, Pioneer Institute Of Professional Institute, Indore

Socialization

Whatever is happening in the society around them they observe & try to do it just like that? When parent interfere in their matter then they treated as a biggest enemy for them. Because as we know that the human tendency is to observe negative things rapidly & try to do it very firstly because negative things have better attraction in comparison to positive one.

Genetic Effect

The parent-child relationship in context to genetic selection is asymmetrical in multiple ways. Parents bring children into existence and are responsible for raising them; children cannot have this same responsibility for their parents. And even if children do have obligations to care for their elderly parents. The content of those requirements differs significantly from parental duties to young children. Parents are required to raise their children so that they can flourish and fend for themselves. This requires, in part, giving children the tools they need to develop their own autonomous wishes and find their own places in the world. By contrast, when grown children assume responsibility for the care of their elderly parents, the decisions of the children should be guided at least in part by the beliefs and values that the parents themselves held when they were fully competent.

Findings

1. The behavior of the person has no relationship with real relationship among them. Like a person can be person at one time & child at another time.
2. There is a wide generation GAP the last generation & this generation is not one generation but more than three generation.
3. The generation gap dilemma in the mind of both parents of today & children who will occupy the seat of parent.
4. The mother also present parents had rate the Geeta & the Mahabharat where as mothers of present have seen the Ekta Kapoor serials.

5. The females today have inherited ant conspiracy from the serials. They are saying today & transforming to their children.

The wide gap between two generation derive it's a threat from the content of preceding paragraph.

Suggestion

1. There is needed to strike a balance between third process of parent and child. The process came to known as assertiveness.
2. The assertive behavior will pay a path hygienic relationship between two and they can walk hand in gloves for month together & year together.
3. The parent should come forward & observe the mind of the children & child should look from the angle of the parent.
4. While maintaining the relationship between parent and child. A child should defacers his/her behavior. There should be consistency and honesty to develop the relationship between parent and child.
5. Child should respect the parent & all. This parent & child relationship deepens with respect at its core.
6. Parents should share time with their child & they also try to find solution of the problem of their child because this relationship is very sensitive cum emotional.

Conclusion

While concluding the researcher have tried bring on platform vibrant relationship. The existing relationship between two changes & come to calm peaceful situation where both come perceive each other & enjoy this beautiful life with happiness respective each other ideas & create a culture for future generation.

