Message

It gives me immense pleasure to learn that Pioneer Institute of Professional Studies is organising a National Seminar on "Quality Management in Higher Education" on September 9-10, 2010. I give them my compliments for initiating such a pertinent dialogue on the issue. This has been my major thrust throughout my academic career. We need to take education as a mission to develop an inclusive model of education where education is available without any discrimination to all across social strata.

The role of educational institution is to induce hope and a sense of dignity among all young aspirants who come to us for acquiring knowledge and practicing wisdom. While sending these young professionals to serve the society we must ensure that they possess all necessary skills to practice their wisdom which is derived out of the acquired knowledge. The real challenges arrive in delivering this knowledge at the same time maintaining quality of education and training coupled with basic human values. As we share a symbiotic relationship with the society where education plays a significant link in keeping all social institutions in place, I hope that the dialogue initiated during the National Seminar on "Quality Management in Higher Education" on September 9-10, 2010 at Pioneer Institute of Professional Studies finds loud expression and gives us reason to contemplate our respective roles in this regard.

I extend my heartfelt wish for every success that they deserve.
